- Neighborhood schools are important.
- Teachers matter.
- Equity does not mean equal . . . some of our students require more of our teachers and services than others in order to meet rigorous standards.

The Override Study Committee (OSC)

Charged to “determine whether substantially more revenue capacity than what is currently anticipated will be necessary to maintain desired levels of services and fund future liabilities of the Town and PSB. . .” Their work has triggered a community-wide conversation about the priorities of our school system, including challenges to and analyses of METCO, Materials Fee, our class size assumptions, the rental of facilities, and our early education programs.
